ACT OF INCORPORATION.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND SIX.

An Act to incorporate JONATHAN HUNEWELL, and others, into a Society, by the name of the MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives, in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That JONATHAN HUNEWELL, and all those who have, or may hereafter associate with him, be, and they hereby are, incorporated and made a body politic, by the name of the "MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION;" and by that name shall be known in law, and shall be capable of suing and being sued, and shall have power to have and keep a common seal, to make by-laws for the election of their members and officers, the collection of assessments, the regulation of their meetings, and the appropriation of their funds for charitable uses; but shall not have power to make by-laws and regulations for any other purposes whatsoever.

SECT. 2. Be it further enacted, That the said Corporation shall have power, and shall be capable in law to purchase, have, hold, use, take, possess, retain, and enjoy in fee simple, or otherwise, any personal or real estate within this Commonwealth, not exceeding the value of forty thousand dollars in real estate, and ten thousand dollars in personal estate, and the same to sell, alien, and dispose of at their pleasure.

August 1963 - D. T. [illegible]

SECT. 3. Be it further enacted, That the annual income of said Corporation shall only be employed for the purpose of relieving the distresses of unfortunate mechanics and their families, to promote inventions and improvements in the mechanic arts, by granting premiums for said inventions and improvements; and to assist young mechanics with loans of money.

SECT. 4. Be it further enacted, That the said Corporation shall be and continue for and during the term of ten years, unless the Legislature shall within that time see fit to dissolve the same.

SECT. 5. Be it further enacted, That JONATHAN HUNEWELL, BENJAMIN RUSSELL, and FRANCIS WRIGHT, be, and they are hereby, authorized and empowered to call the first meeting of the said Corporation, by giving notice of the time and place thereof in two of the newspapers printed in Boston thirty days at least before the time of such meeting.

In the House of Representatives, March 7, 1806. This bill, having had three several readings, passed to be enacted.

TIMOTHY BIGELOW, Speaker.

In Senate, March 8, 1806. This bill, having had two several readings, passed to be enacted.

H. G. OTIS, President.

March 8, 1806. By the Governor approved.

CALEB STRONG.

True copy.—Attest, JOHN AVERY, Secretary.

IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND FOURTEEN.

An Act continuing the MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, That the "MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION," incorporated by an Act entitled an Act to incorporate JONATHAN HUNEWELL and others into a society by the name of the MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION, shall and may remain and continue a Corporation, with all the legal powers and privileges the same now enjoys, for and during the term of ten years from and after the time limited for the duration of said Corporation by the Act aforesaid.

In the House of Representatives, February 26, 1814. This bill, having had three several readings, passed to be enacted.

TIMOTHY BIGELOW, Speaker.

In Senate, February 28, 1814. This bill, having had two several readings, passed to be enacted.

JOHN PHILLIPS, President.

HISTORICAL AND STATISTICAL MEMORANDA.

[Prepared by JOSEPH L. BATES, Secretary.]

ORIGIN AND AIMS.

THE MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION has existed since the year 1795. It is composed of master-mechanics, manufacturers, and persons practised in the arts, who, at the time of their admission, were residents of this State and engaged in business on their own account. But few existing organizations have so remote an origin. The first meeting of the tradesmen, mechanics and manufacturers which resulted in the formation of the Association was held at the Green Dragon Tavern (on the southerly side of Union, west of and near Hanover street), in Boston, the first Tuesday in January, 1795. The notice of this meeting was prepared for publication, without signature, by Henry Purkitt, a cooper by trade, and one of the most respectable of the citizens of the town. Col. Paul Revere was elected to preside on this occasion, and acted as chairman at all the subsequent preliminary meetings. He was chosen President of the Association at the first election of officers, April 16, 1795. The object of the first meeting was stated in the notice to be to consult on measures for petitioning the General Court to revise and amend the law respecting apprentices; but, before the full organization of the Association, some nobler purposes were considered, and subsequently embodied in its constitution, viz.: "To create and sustain a friendly feeling among its associates; to extend the circle of individual usefulness; to encourage industry, and promote inventions and improvements in the mechanic arts; to provide for the instruction of apprentices, and assist young mechanics with loans of money; to help the aged and unfortunate of the associates, and the widows of deceased members in poverty and suffering; and to provide for the burial of its deceased members by gifts deemed sufficient to defray the expenses of an unostentatious ceremony." These were among the considerations which led to the formation of the Association, and have tended to its long-continued existence. It will be found by those who may study the full history of the society that the promises of its early days of usefulness, benevolence and influence in our community have been sensibly realized, and that the views of its founders were not altogether visionary. The Association began its career during the infancy of our republic, in the "day of small things," when extensive manufacturing establishments did not exist, and the use of machinery to lighten labor and increase production was little known; when industry, prudence, and the kindred homely virtues, were requisite and the only reliable means to win success in life. The influence of mechanics has often been relied on to assist in moulding public sentiment and forwarding enterprises deemed essential to the general welfare, and no portion of our people have oftener been selected to fill places of responsibility and trust, to enact laws and grant privileges, than they.

TITLES AND PURPOSES.

The first constitution, adopted in March, 1795, gives the title of the society as the "ASSOCIATED MECHANICS AND MANUFACTURERS OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS." The first engraved certificate of membership, and also the first certificate prepared to be presented to apprentices who had fulfilled their engagements to the satisfaction of their employers, give the title "MASSACHUSETTS ME-CHANIC ASSOCIATION." At the first annual meeting, held Dec. 10, 1795, it was voted to alter the appellation of the society, and, instead of its former name, that it be styled "THE ASSOCIATION OF MECHANICS OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS." The earliest written record is headed with the words: "BOSTON MECHANIC ASSOCIATION." But this name does not appear to have ever been formally adopted; probably the recording officer did not deem it requisite that the whole intent of the organization need be stated while the constitution and by-laws supplied the information. When the act of incorporation was granted by the General Court, in 1806, the word "Charitable" was added to the title; and from that time the Association has been known by its corporate name: "MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION."

THE BADGE AND BANNER.

Formerly the Association on all public occasions wore a badge of green ribbon, and carried a banner made of green silk. There is no record when or why this particular color was adopted as the badge of the society. At one of the triennial festivals held some years ago, a guest (and an honorary member) who had worn the emblematic ribbon for the day, and seemed honored by being permitted to do so, explained that it was the middle ray of the prismatic colors, and typified the social position of the mechanics — neither the highest nor the lowest. Recently the Association has not appeared as much in public processions as formerly, and the green badge has been but little worn.

THE GOVERNMENT.

It was for many years the custom of the Board of Government to hold monthly meetings, at the members' houses, on the Thursday evenings nearest to the full of the moon. The streets were not lighted in the evening as now, nor had gas for illumination then been introduced. After the transaction of business a supper usually succeeded, and many gentlemen, prominent at the time, and friends of the Association, were often present as guests. In later days the Government meetings have been held in rooms provided for the purpose, and the good things which tempt the appetite are now unknown when the Board assembles for business. A room in the Merchants' Exchange building, State Street, was hired in 1843 for the deposit of the property of the Association, including the philosophical apparatus and record-books, and also for the meetings of the Government, and of any committees that might find it convenient for their use. Subsequently, rooms in the City building, on Court square, in the Provident Institution for Savings building, on Tremont street, and in Bromfield street, were occupied for the same purposes till the completion of the society's new building, on the corner of Bedford and Chauncy streets, in the year 1860.

CHARITIES.

Beneficence was one of the objects in view in the formation of the Association, and though it was never expected a full support would be furnished to any family or member in need, yet aid in sickness, and a timely relief when calamity or old age overtook a brother, or those dependent upon him, has always been as liberally bestowed as the resources of the society would permit. From the year 1813 there has annually been chosen a Committee of Relief, whose duty it is to seek out and relieve such indigent members, or their families, as may be objects of charity, and to receive and act on all petitions for relief. The committee now consists of nine members. Their reports are made quarterly to the Government and annually to the Association, but the details are not recorded in the books of the Secretary. The Board of Trustees, in October, 1799, voted ten dollars to John Keith, a deceased mechanic, but not a member of the Association. In June, 1801, Mr. Hans, a poor, ingenious mechanic, was presented with $14.50, collected among the members. These charities are the earliest named upon the records. Before the organization of the Committee of Relief occasional donations were made from the funds, and from voluntary collections, in aid of unfortunate members. The books of the Committee of Relief show a total of about one hundred and three thousand dollars distributed to July, 1879. For a few of the past years the annual appropriation has been five thousand dollars, which has been expended upon about fifty recipients, principally the widows of deceased members. In the course of a series of years a number of these recipients have been paid sums varying from one to two thousand dollars. The amounts which the Committee of Relief have annually named as requisite to meet the expected calls upon their sympathy have been voted without much inquiry, and almost always without any hesitation. "The operations of this committee are conducted with marked fidelity, and yet so quietly and unostentatiously that they are often overlooked in the midst of more stirring, though not more important, affairs."

FUNERAL BENEFITS.

The establishment of a funeral fund was commenced soon after the organization of the Association—the families of those paying an annual sum into the treasury only being entitled to its benefits after the members interested had passed away. The sum paid out in each case was forty dollars. In 1816, this fund, which had been kept separate, was merged into the general funds of the Association, and became, by a provision of the constitution, applicable to all. In 1868 the sum to be paid was increased, by an amendment of the constitution, to seventy-five dollars. It is the duty of the Treasurer, and it has always been his custom, to present this amount, immediately after the death of a member, to his widow or legal representative. The benefit has often proved a timely help to many an afflicted family which has been burdened with the expenses of a continued sickness and a burial service. "To the honor of those whose circumstances did not need the relief, the money has often been returned to the Treasurer to be added to this peculiar fund of benevolence."

THE SOCIAL ELEMENT.

The social element seems to have been a prominent feature in the early days of the Association, and the good fellowship which the organization was intended to promote was often encouraged by festive gatherings. The first constitution required a public festival at the time of the annual meeting in December, and for seven consecutive years these celebrations were held. The first, in 1798, was at the Green Dragon Tavern. "At two o'clock P.M., with twenty-nine members present, the society sat down to a well-provided table, and fared sumptuously; the toasts which were read being so completely adapted to the occasion they were received with éelat and interspersed with songs." These festivals were important occasions in the infancy of the society, and large committees were appointed to make full arrangements for the regular "anniversary feast." They had their value, also, in bringing the Association before the public, in enabling the body to extend courtesies to the prominent men of the day, and in uniting the members in a feeling of brotherhood. Since the year 1809 the festivals have been held once in three years. The later constitution made it imperative to hold triennial festivals, on which occasions an address must be delivered by members. It was the usual custom for the members of the Association and invited guests to meet at some convenient place in the morning of the day selected, form a procession, and move to some church or hall, where an address, with other exercises, would occupy about two hours; from thence proceeding to Faneuil Hall to partake of a dinner, followed by sentiments, addresses and music. At the celebration in 1848 members were permitted to invite ladies to attend, and the use of wine was dispensed with. In 1851 the customary procession was omitted, and the address required by the constitution was delivered at the dinner-table.

INTELLECTUAL FACILITIES.

The Association is in possession of a library of miscellaneous books numbering some two thousand volumes, many of which were presented by members. At the time the Association occupied the rooms on Tremont street, in the building then belonging to the Provident Institution for Savings, a strenuous effort was made to establish a library in connection with a place for social intercourse, as well as a reading-room, to be opened at convenient hours of the day and evening for the accommodation of members. The whole project was never fully carried into effect; but for a number of years the library-rooms were open to members on Saturday afternoons and evenings, and the families of members were permitted to take books away. The Public Library of the city, with its great wealth of literature and daily attention to the wants of readers, has made our own library seem insignificant in comparison; and there are now very few who apply for the use of our volumes. The library is kept in a room in the Mechanics' building, Bedford and Chauncy streets, and is accessible to any member who may apply to the janitor of the building.

Early in the year 1828 an appropriation was made of one hundred and seventy-five dollars to defray the expense of twelve scientific lectures. The first of this series was delivered on Tuesday evening, January 22d, and they were continued weekly during the winter. Lectures were at this time regarded with great favor, were well attended, and attracted many new members, besides giving the Association a popularity and consideration not derived from its other operations. The regular courses of lectures, each winter, were discontinued in the year 1840, owing to the difficulty of obtaining lecturers, and from other causes, since which time a few full courses have been given, and some occasional lectures upon special topics.

APPRENTICES' AIDS.

The Mechanic Apprentices' Library Association owes its origin to the benevolent efforts of Mr. William Wood, a retired merchant of Boston, who in 1820 collected nearly fifteen hundred volumes, besides numerous pamphlets, from various donors, for the use of apprentices. The books were placed, on the 22d of February of that year, in a small room in the Old State House, in charge of the Charitable Association. The Government at the time cordially accepted the keys and the superintendence, promising their best exertions to carry into effect the benevolent wishes and expectations of the donors. The Apprentices' Association was formed June 19, 1828, and the library was committed to their entire control in 1832, subject to certain conditions, which will be found on the closing page of this volume. It is highly creditable to the apprentices who formed the Association, as well as to their successors, that the affairs of this body were for a considerable time so managed as to be self-sustaining. More recently some assistance has been required from the parent Association in providing for an increase of books and the current expenses. The Apprentices' Association occupy rooms in the Mechanics' building, with entrance at No. 53 Avon street. Apprentices to mechanical trades, being under twenty-one years of age, are eligible to membership and entitled to all the privileges afforded by the payment of one dollar per annum.

In the winter of 1828 a committee was chosen to engage "some suitable person or persons to teach a school or schools for the instruction of the apprentices of members," and an appropriation of two hundred dollars was made for this purpose. At the opening of the school about one hundred apprentices entered their names, most of whom attended regularly. The instruction given was in writing, arithmetic, and book-keeping. Subsequently a separate school was established for instruction in drawing, taught by Mr. F. S. Durivage. A school for the instruction of apprentices in object-drawing, taught by Mr. D. C. Johnston, in one of the parlors of the Boott house (now Revere House), was opened in 1846. Eighty-one pupils were admitted during the season. The result seemed satisfactory to the committee, who advised the continuation of the school. This is believed to have been the first school opened in Boston for the instruction of beginners in drawing from objects. A life-school, maintained by artists resident here, for their own study and practice in art, had before existed. This school did not seem to produce results commensurate with its cost, and after a few seasons was discontinued.

A donation of four thousand dollars was made in the year 1876 to assist the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in its experiment of establishing a school of practical mechanism, the Institute agreeing, in consideration of the donation, to admit two pupils, free of expense, recommended by the Association. Thus far the number of admissions has been limited, and the advantages anticipated have been only faintly realized. The high standard of requirements for admission to the school has prevented many from applying who, with a native bias for mechanical work, were deficient in the intellectual training announced as requisite. During the past year the requirements for admission have been modified, admitting graduates of our grammar schools otherwise qualified.

PATRIOTIC AND PUBLIC DEMONSTRATIONS.

The following clause is the conclusion of the original constitution adopted in 1795, its spirit having been followed in the action of the society, though not a part of the constitution as since amended: "As this Association is formed for the sole purposes of promoting the mechanic arts and extending the practice of benevolence, the introduction of political or religious disputes or questions shall always be considered as deviations from order, and as inconsistent with our laudable institution." The incorporation of the above sentence into the constitution led some one to remark, early in its history, that "the Association had neither religion nor politics." Though free from all religious or political action in its affairs, the Association has on all proper occasions acknowledged its dependence upon the Ruler of events, and invoked his aid in its contemplated enterprises. It has often been a participant in patriotic demonstrations intended to inspire a love of country, or in honor of its supporters, defenders, and public servants, both among the living and the dead. It would be impossible within the limits of this sketch to give a full detail of the various ceremonies in which this Association, singly or in conjunction with others, has participated. Only a few can be related among the more prominent:—

800 In January, 1800, by invitation of the selectmen of the town, a procession of trades, forty-five in number, was arranged by the president and trustees, in honor of the memory of George Washington, who died Dec. 14, 1799. This procession was on the 9th of January, other societies of the town uniting.

A similar observance took place, Feb. 22d, 1800, the President of the United States having issued a proclamation recommending the day to be observed as a season of mourning and humiliation. The procession was formed in State street, and escorted a large body of prominent officials to the Old South Church, where appropriate services, including an oration by Rev. Joseph Tuckerman, were held.

During the visit of Gen. Lafayette to this country, in 1824, the Association invited him to attend the triennial festival, which, in due course, was to be celebrated that year.

A pressure of engagements prevented the general's acceptance at the time; but he promised, on his return to Boston the next year, to "claim the welcome proposal." On Monday, June 20, 1825, a complimentary dinner was given at the Marlboro' Hotel, attended by a large number of members and invited guests, including Governor Lincoln and other State officials, the Secretary of War, members of Congress, and the heads of the city government. The occasion inspired patriotic feeling and eloquent utterances, and was a noted success. General Lafayette died at Paris, France, May 20, 1834. Appropriate notice of his death was taken at the June meeting of the Association, and also at an adjourned meeting, July 24, when a series of commemorative resolutions, and a memoir of his life, were accepted and ordered to be placed upon the records.

On the 15th of June, 1827, the corner-stone of the monumental obelisk in the Granary burial-ground, over the graves of Franklin's father and mother, was laid, with an appropriate address and becoming ceremonies, in the presence of the Governor and Lieut. Governor of the Commonwealth, and the officers and members of the Association, by Hon. Charles Wells, then president. The address was by Gen. H. A. S. Dearborn.

The connection of the Association with the erection of the commemorative monument on Bunker Hill furnished additional evidence of the patriotic sentiment which exists among our members, who are ready to respond whenever a proper occasion is presented. The monument was commenced in the year 1825, by a body of patriotic and public-spirited gentlemen. The work was carried on until the year 1828, when the original funds, created by subscription, became exhausted, and the work necessarily was suspended. The structure had been raised about thirty-six feet above the massive foundation. It was estimated that the work was then two-thirds completed, and fifty thousand dollars would be required to finish the same and relieve the battle-ground from all incumbrances. In the month of May, 1833, Mr. Amos Lawrence, by letter, proposed that the Association should endeavor to procure by subscription a sum of money sufficient to complete the monument. The suggestion was deemed complimentary to the character of the Association, and a special meeting was called to consider the subject. A public meeting was held at Faneuil Hall, which was attended by a large and enthusiastic audience; speeches were made by prominent men of the day, and an address, with a series of resolutions, was adopted for distribution. The Association assumed the duty of instituting measures to forward, if possible, a work so clearly patriotic, and so ardently desired. Ward committees were appointed in the city to solicit aid, and appeals were addressed to various military, masonic, social, literary, and other, organizations, as well as to many towns in the Commonwealth. The Association, having been authorized to apply any money which it had collected, or might collect, toward the completion of the monument, appointed a committee of practical mechanics to proceed with the work, commencing on the 17th of June, 1834. The subscriptions at the close of the year amounted to $13,978, which were afterwards much increased. At the annual meeting, in 1836, the Government was instructed to appoint a committee of fifty members to solicit further subscriptions for the completion of the monument. On the 17th of June, 1843, the completion of the monument was celebrated with imposing ceremonies. The occasion was honored by the presence of President Tyler and his cabinet, the governors of many States, and many distinguished persons. The Association, by invitation, appeared in the procession, and took part in the services at Bunker Hill. In acknowledgment of the active part taken by our Association in the completion of the monument the Bunker Hill Monument Association made our President ex officio the first vice-president of its organization.

The introduction of the Cochituate water into Boston, September 17, 1848, was an occasion for general exultation. The city government invited the Association to join in the procession, as well as in the public services on the Common; which honor was accepted. A larger number than usual appeared in the line, and continued till the close of the day.

The erection of a statue of Benjamin Franklin was first suggested by Mr. Robert C. Winthrop, in a lecture introductory to a course, delivered November 29, 1853. At the annual meeting of the Association, January, 1854, a committee of the Government previously appointed, of which Mr. F. W. Lincoln, Jr., was chairman, made a report highly favorable to the commencement of the enterprise, which received the entire approbation of the meeting. A committee of forty gentlemen, a part from the Association and a part from the citizens at large, was appointed and intrusted with the business of the prosecution of the work. To this committee was added the mayor of the city, the president of the Common Council, and the presidents of several associations. Ward committees were appointed in the Association to solicit subscriptions in aid of the object. The work of the several committees was diligently conducted, the sentiment of all classes of the community favored the purpose, and subscriptions readily followed. The statue was modelled by Mr. Richard S. Greenough, and the bronze-cast was made by Mr. J. T. Ames, of Chicopee, Mass. One of the bronze panels in front of the pedestal, representing Franklin as the printer, was supplied by the Association. On the 17th of September, 1856, the anniversary of the settlement of Boston, the statue was inaugurated with unusual display, the business of the city being suspended for the day. In the morning a procession was formed, estimated to be five miles long, composed of a military escort, the fire department, State and city governments, mechanical trades, masonic fraternity, Franklin-medal scholars, literary, benevolent, and scientific associations, the Franklin statue committee, and our own Association. The statue was already on its pedestal, and draped with national flags. The addresses were delivered from a raised platform in front of City Hall; the inaugural by Mr. Winthrop, the presentation by the President of our Association, F. W. Lincoln, Jr., and the acceptance by the mayor of the city, Alexander H. Rice. The unveiling of the statue took place during the address of Mr. Winthrop.

861 On Wednesday, April 17, 1861, it was voted by the Board of Government to raise the national flag on the Mechanics' building at once. With cheers by the people assembled, and a short address by Vice-President Stimpson, the flag was raised to the breeze from the roof.

862 The Association joined in a public parade and patriotic meeting of citizens on Boston Common on the afternoon of Wednesday, August 27, 1862; and also in a procession on the 29th, to welcome Brigadier-General Michael Corcoran, of the volunteer army, and other distinguished citizens of New York. About two hundred and fifty of the members were in line, Mr. F. H. Stimpson serving as chief marshal. Other organizations, and the citizens generally, took an active part in these honorary demonstrations.

862 On October 27, 1862, it was voted by the Board of Government to tender an escort to Col. Thomas E. Chickering and the Forty-first regiment, on the occasion of their departure for the seat of war. On the 6th of November following, the Association, under the marshalship of Nathaniel J. Bradlee, assembled and formed a procession for this duty. The "National Lancers" and the "Roxbury Reserve Guard" were also participants in the ceremonies, adding greatly to the interest of the day.

While President James Monroe was a visitor to Boston, in July, 1817, a delegation, composed of the Government and members, made a formal call upon him at the Exchange Coffee House to pay their respects, and to congratulate him upon his visit. The compliment was very cordially received, and he expressed his thanks for the honor shown him.

1841
April 16, 1841, a special meeting of the Association was called in consequence of the recent death of President William Henry Harrison. A series of resolutions were adopted, including one to "assemble as a body and unite with the city government in the funeral ceremonies proposed."

1845
July 3, 1845, a meeting of the Association was held, when a preamble and resolution were adopted expressive of sympathy in the loss, by death, of Andrew Jackson, ex-President of the United States, and agreeing to unite in a public demonstration the following Wednesday.

1848
March 9, 1848, the Government voted to attend the funeral services in honor of ex-President John Quincy Adams. The services were held at Faneuil Hall. Owing to the inclement weather an intended procession was omitted.

1850
In 1850 the Association accepted the invitation of the municipal authorities to join in a funeral procession in honor of President Zachary Taylor, recently deceased.

1865
Jan. 17, 1865, a meeting of the Government was held, and appropriate resolutions adopted, in honor of the memory of ex-Governor Edward Everett. The Government also attended the funeral services.

Oct. 28, 1852, a special meeting of the Association was held to determine what measures should be adopted to testify the respect of the Association for the memory of Daniel Webster, an honorary member of the Association. Resolutions were passed, and members of the Government requested to attend the funeral at Marshfield. Nov. 30 the Association formed a part of the city procession, and attended the services at Faneuil Hall in memory of Mr. Webster. On Sept. 17, 1859, the Government was present at the dedication of the Webster statue in front of the State House, Boston.

In 1832, at the annual meeting, notice was taken of the death of William H. Eliot, an honorary member, a merchant of Boston.

May 1, 1854, at a Government meeting, the President announced the death of Senator John Davis, of Worcester, an honorary member. Appropriate resolutions were adopted.

Aug. 20, 1854, a special meeting of the Government was held in consequence of the death of Abbott Lawrence, an honorary member. A series of resolutions were adopted, including one to attend his funeral services.

By invitation of the trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital, the Government and members of the Association joined with other bodies in the ceremonies of laying the corner-stone of the new hospital, on the morning of July 4, 1818; also by invitation of Mr. William H. Eliot and associates, at the laying of the corner-stone of the Tremont House, July 4, 1828.

PUBLIC EXHIBITIONS OF SKILL AND INDUSTRY.

The President of the Association received a note in the month of June, 1818, enclosing thirty-five dollars, which the donor requested might be used in premiums to young coopers, under age, for the best-made casks, to the number of three, that should be offered. On the morning of July 4 ten casks were accordingly exhibited upon the Common, in view of a large company, and examined by judges selected by the President. Three awards were made, one of twenty, one of ten, and one of five dollars. The following year (1819) a similar exhibition took place on the Common in front of the State House. Besides casks, other articles were shown, and the competition was not confined to apprentices. Seven awards were made for hats and casks. The third exhibition, in 1820, included a greater variety of articles, and was held at Washington Garden. Five silver medals and thirty dollars in money were awarded. The fourth exhibition was made on the morning of Oct. 4, 1821, the day selected for the celebration of the triennial festival. One hundred and thirty-three dollars were distributed in awards made for a variety of articles. The money for the several premiums was subscribed for and given by public-spirited individuals. There is no further record of this form of exhibitions.

The subject of a general public exhibition of American manufactures and inventions, and the products of the mechanic arts, was introduced at the meetings of the Government as early as 1832. Such exhibitions had been held in Philadelphia by the Franklin Institute, and in New York by the American Institute, and had been visited by some of the members of our Association, who returned favorably impressed with their beneficial influence and the pecuniary advantages they promised. The project was not a favorite one with many; in fact, the majority doubted the feasibility of such an undertaking, and treated the subject with indifference, if not positive opposition. Late in the year, however, a committee was appointed upon the subject; but nothing decisive was done. Four years later (1836) the sentiment in favor of exhibitions having greatly increased, by discussion and observation of the successes attending those held in other cities, the Association, at a special meeting held in September, voted to appoint a committee to report upon the expediency of establishing in this city an annual fair for the encouragement of manufactures and the mechanic arts and the awarding of premiums. In an able report, made by the committee Jan. 5, 1837, the enterprise was strongly urged, and brilliant and satisfactory results predicted. The report was unanimously accepted, a liberal sum of money appropriated for the expenses, and a board of managers constituted fully empowered to carry into effect the intent of the Association. On the 18th of September the exhibition commenced. "The doors of Faneuil Hall were thrown open, and presented a beautiful scene." "The city and country poured forth their populations to see the wonderful display. People were surprised at every step with some new contrivance, and puzzled and bewildered in contemplation of the whole, but manifested unqualified pleasure and exultation." "The throng of spectators was not sensibly diminished from the opening to the close." The experiment was so successful that the managers recommended an early preparation for a similar exhibition the next year. On the evening of Sept. 20, an address was delivered at the "Odeon," by the Hon. Edward Everett, then Governor of the Commonwealth. The address was full of eloquent passages, and worthy of its talented author. It was printed with the report of the managers. The first exhibition, from its novelty and wonderful concentration of ingenious contrivances, the products of labor-saving machines and of skilful hands, was the pride and boast of the time. All doubts of the usefulness of these exhibitions, in bringing to public notice the latest mechanical inventions and improvements, their power to educate the public taste, and stimulate to further triumphs in changing rude materials into forms of beauty and utility, were dispelled. Those who coldly received the first advances of the enthusiasts in favor of the experiment were compelled to join in the general expressions of satisfaction with the splendid result. The second exhibition was held in the autumn of the year 1839, with results quite as brilliant and satisfactory to all as the first had been; and from this time periodical exhibitions seemed to be fully accepted as an established enterprise of the society, permitted by its charter, in keeping with the character of its organization, and promising from their pecuniary results to aid in forwarding the other objects embraced in the charter of the Association. Thirteen exhibitions have been held, generally about three years apart, each seeming to surpass its predecessor in the increase of its valuable contributions and in the public appreciation. The medals and diplomas awarded for novelties in invention and excellence in design and workmanship have been highly appreciated by the recipients, and accepted as honors conferred, oftentimes helping the fortunate possessors to increased business and a perceptible advance on the road to wealth. The thirteenth exhibition, held in September and October, 1878, was in a building especially constructed for the purpose on Columbus avenue, Park square and Pleasant street, with an art-gallery on Columbus avenue, connected by a short bridge over Church street. The location was a favorable one for the convenience of exhibitors and visitors, and the whole enterprise was an eminent success. These exhibitions have always been open to the goods and competition of the whole country, and the awards have been widely distributed among the skilful and industrious people of all the States of the Union. The use of a specially erected building for a few months only, the time required for the preparation, display, and removal of the articles on exhibition — all that the Association required — has seemed to many somewhat of a wasteful expenditure, and led to the conviction that a permanent building should be erected for exhibitions and other large gatherings; or what, perhaps, would be better, a cluster of buildings that might be let for general purposes when not required by the Association.

A PERMANENT MECHANICS' BUILDING.

The desire of the Association to possess a building with committee, school and library rooms, and hall for general meetings, was very early expressed. The first recorded movement for this object was made at a meeting of the Government, December 29, 1798, when a committee was appointed to make inquiries respecting the purchase of a lot of land. In 1802 it was voted to offer a premium for the best approved plan for a building. Further action was taken in 1825, when the purchase of the estate on the corner of Court and Tremont streets was contemplated. The subject was again resumed in 1826, also in 1827, and in 8215- 1837. In 1843 the Board of Government, with twelve other members, were appointed a committee upon the subject. They were fully authorized to purchase such a lot of land as, in their opinion, would be suitable for the erection of such a building as would meet the wants of the Association. This committee, at the annual meeting, January, 1845, reported having purchased the Boott estate, in Bowdoin square, for forty-six thousand dollars. The funds of the Association were entirely absorbed in the purchase of this estate, and, after the very strenuous efforts of a large committee to obtain aid in the erection of the proposed building, the project was postponed. The location was objected to by some as not being sufficiently central. It was then decided to convert the building into a hotel, and the present "Revere House" was the result. The Revere House, named after Paul Revere, the first President of the Association, was opened to the public May 1, 1847. The addition to the main building, on the west side, was made by the lessee, Mr. Paran Stevens, and his friends, and subsequently the whole property was vested in a corporation known as the "Proprietors of the Revere House," our own body becoming a stockholder to the amount of its interest at the time. At present the Association holds six hundred and fifty shares, the par value thereof being one hundred dollars. The land upon which the Association's building stands, at the corner of Bedford and Chauncy streets, was purchased at an auction sale, December 22, 1856, at a cost of thirty-one thousand dollars. 856 The corner-stone was laid with proper ceremonies on the 30th September, 1857. An address was delivered by the President, Mr. Joseph M. Wightman. The building was erected from designs and plans prepared by Mr. Hammatt Billings, and was formally dedicated March 27, 1860. The whole cost of land and building, exclusive of interest, was $117,694.46. The completion of a hall for the uses of the Association, so long contemplated and so long delayed, was a subject of sincere gratification.

The Association had then a home of its own. It was not compelled to wander from place to place to find a hall convenient, or perhaps inconvenient, for its meetings, or a place to deposit its movable property, its records, and its library. It had room enough for all the purposes required. Its building was an ornament to the city, and its modest yet tasteful architecture a grateful sight to the passer-by. The annex to the building, on the corner of Avon and Chauncy streets, was built by the Association in 1869, at a cost for land and building of $88,338. The upper rooms contain the Mechanic Apprentices' library, and are also used by the Apprentices' Association for their meetings. To favor an income from the lower stories in the Mechanics' building, considerable alterations were deemed expedient, and are now (August, 1879) in progress.

THE SHATTUCK FUND.

Dr. George C. Shattuck, of Boston, who died in 1854, by his will bequeathed to the Association one-third of the net income of certain manufacturing stocks for three years, "in special confidence that the said Association shall carefully invest the amount which it may thus receive, and apply the net interest and income thereof, from time to time, in the discretion of said Association or its Government, to encourage improvements in architecture, and especially in the mode of constructing cheap and convenient dwellings for the poor; and also in defraying the expenses of instructing mechanic apprentices in a knowledge of the useful arts." The amount received and invested (in a policy of the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Co.) was $9,606.87.

PROPERTY.

The present enumerated property of the Association is as follows: The Mechanics' building on Bedford, Chauncy, and Avon streets; six hundred and fifty shares in the stock of the corporation known as the "Proprietors of the Revere House ; " a library of miscellaneous books, about two thousand volumes, many of which were presented to the Association ; the philosophical apparatus, in glass cases, presented by the Boston Mechanics' Institution ; the shafting, hangings, belting, and various other property, used in the carrying on of exhibitions ; several glass show-cases used at exhibitions ; two safes and the furniture of the hall and rooms in the Mechanics' building ; the printing-press used by Benjamin Franklin, presented by John B. Murray, of New York ; a bronze statuette of Franklin, presented by Robert C. Winthrop ; a bronze bas-relief of Franklin, presented by J. T. Ames, of Chicopee ; the marble clock in the large hall, presented by Frederiek H. Stimpson ; the Franklin chair, presented by Joseph M. Wightman ; a large portrait of Harrison Gray Otis, presented by citizens of Boston ; a copy of Gilbert Stuart's portrait of Washington, presented by Josiah Bradlee and associates ; the portraits of all the past presidents, many of which were presented to the Association, and the portrait of Osmyn Brewster, for thirty-seven years treasurer of the Association ; a bronze bust of Nathaniel Bowditch, presented by Henry N. Hooper & Co. ; a plaster bust of Jonas Chickering, presented by Frederiek H. Stimpson ; a plaster bust of Alexander Hamilton, presented by J. W. Rogers ; an oil portrait of William Breed, presented by William W. Clapp ; a silver snuff-box, made by Paul Revere, for many years the pocket companion of Major Benj. Russell, presented by John C. Park ; and the seal of the Association, cut in stone and mounted with silver, presented by Obadiah Rich.

MEMBERSHIP AND CONDITION.

The present membership of the Association is very near nine hundred, principally residents of Boston and its vicinity. A few have their homes in distant States and countries. Probably no organization can be named containing so many active men owing to personal exertion and continued industry their success in life and good standing among their fellows. The Association long since overcame the prejudices it met in its early days. It stands before the community venerable and honorable — a power for good in the future. May its continued control be with those, who, free from personal ambition, seek only to enlarge its usefulness and perpetuate its creditable record!

~~THE CONSTITUTION.~~

It is universally admitted that the combined operations of the MECHANIC POWERS have been the source of those useful inventions and scientific arts which have given to polished society its wealth, conveniences, respectability, and defence; and which have ameliorated the condition of its citizens. Rational, then, is the inference that the association of those who conduct those powers in their operations will prove highly beneficial in promoting mutual good offices and fellowship; in assisting the necessitous, encouraging the ingenious, and in rewarding fidelity. To effect these desirable ends, the present associates agree to be governed, as a society, by the following ~~CONSTITUTION.~~By-Laws.

ARTICLE I.

NAME AND QUALIFICATIONS.

SECTION 1. The name of this Association, as specified in the act of incorporation, shall be the "MASSACHUSETTS CHARITABLE MECHANIC ASSOCIATION."

SECT. 2. This Association shall consist of mechanics, manufacturers, and those practised in the mechanic arts, who shall be doing such business on their own account at the time of admission, or shall be engaged in superintending or managing the mechanical departments of joint stock or manufacturing companies.

SECT. 3. The officers of this Association shall be a President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, and twelve Trustees, who shall constitute and be denominated the "Government of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association."

ARTICLE II.

CONDITIONS OF MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION 1. A person to become a member must be not less than twenty-one years of age, a citizen of the United States, a resident of this Commonwealth, of good moral character, in good health, be proposed by a member, be approved by the Government, receive two-thirds of the votes of the members present at a regular meeting of the Association, and within sixty days thereafter pay his admission fee, and subscribe his name to the By-Laws.

SECT. 2. The fee for admission shall be according to the age of the person admitted:—

21 to 30 years of age.....	Twenty-five dollars.
30 to 40 " "	Thirty dollars.
40 to 45 " "	Thirty-five dollars.
45 to 50 " "	Forty dollars.
50 to 55 " "	Fifty dollars.
55 to 60 " "	Sixty dollars.
60 or over.....	One hundred dollars.

Each member shall be subject to an annual assessment of five dollars, for the calendar year, payable before April first.

SECT. 3. Members who have been such for thirty years (uninterruptedly) and have paid all assessments, shall be considered life-members. Any member who has paid all assessments may become a life member at any time on the payment in one sum of an amount equal to three dollars per year for the unexpired portion of the term of thirty years, dating from the time of his admission. Life members shall be exempt from the annual assessments, but shall be subject to all By-Laws of the Association and to all special assessments.

SECT. 4. Every member whose annual assessment for any calendar year shall remain unpaid on the first day of October of the same year, shall be notified by the Secretary of his delinquency, by notice mailed to his last known address, and the Secretary shall report such member to the Board of Government as in arrears; and if the amount due shall remain unpaid at the close of the year for which the same is due, the Government may report the name of the delinquent member, and the amount of his arrearages to the Association, and thereupon the Association may declare his membership forfeited, and discharge him from membership in the Association, by a vote of two-thirds of the members present and voting upon the question at any regular or special meeting; provided that notice of such contemplated action be mailed to the delinquent member as hereinbefore provided, at least two weeks prior to the date of the meeting at which such action is taken.

SECT. 5. Such persons of distinction as the Government shall, from time to time, recommend and approve, may be admitted Honorary Members, by a vote of two-thirds of the members present at any regular meeting; they shall not be entitled to any of the pecuniary, elective, or controlling privileges of the Association, and shall be exempt from all assessments.

SECT. 6. Every person becoming a member shall be entitled to a certificate of his membership and a copy of the Constitution.

ARTICLE IV.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS AND COMMITTEE OF RELIEF.

SECTION 1. The election of officers and Committee of Relief shall be at the annual meeting in January, by written votes, a majority making a choice. The President, Vice-President, Treasurer and Secretary shall be voted for separately; the Trustees may all be named on one ticket, and also the Committee of Relief on one ticket. In case the Association shall fail to elect all or either of its officers on the aforesaid day, the meeting may be adjourned from time to time until such election is completed; provided, however, that not more than ten days shall intervene from one adjournment to another.

SECT. 2. The same person shall not be eligible to the office of President, Vice-President, Trustee, or member of the Committee of Relief, more than three years successively.

SECT. 3. Whenever a vacancy shall occur in the Government, or Committee of Relief, it shall be filled at the next regular meeting of the Association.

ARTICLE V.

DUTY OF OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The President shall preside at the meetings of the Association and Government. He shall sign all documents and certificates issued by the Association or Government. He may appoint such temporary subordinate officers, from time to time, as may be deemed necessary for the promotion of order and the arrangement of processions. He shall read, or cause to be read, the journal of proceedings at the regular meetings of the Government and Association.

SECT. 2. The Vice-President shall sign all official documents which require the signature of the President. In the absence of the President he shall preside in the Association and Government. In the absence of the President and Vice-President a President pro tempore shall be chosen to preside.

SECT. 3. The Treasurer shall be intrusted with all the property of the Association not otherwise provided for. He shall, with the advice or consent of the Committee on Finance, from time to time, invest and dispose of the funds in such manner as may be deemed most beneficial. He shall report annually the receipts and expenditures of the Association, and the amount and species of property remaining in his care. He shall pay no money without authority therefor from the Committee on Finance; his accounts shall at all times be subject to their inspection, and annually a careful examination of all his accounts shall be made and their correctness attested on his books by the Committee of Finance. He shall give such a bond, with securities, for the faithful discharge of his trust, as shall be required by the Government, and his compensation shall be fixed by that Board.

SECT. 4. The Secretary shall keep a fair and correct record of the proceedings at all meetings of the Association and Government. He shall issue all notifications for the meetings of the Association, Government, or committees; and in the notifications to the Association he shall state the object of the meeting, and any special business proposed to be acted upon.

He shall furnish the chairman of each committee with the vote of his appointment, and act as clerk to committees whenever required. He shall notify each candidate of his admission within ten days thereafter. He shall notify each member of his dues to the Association. He shall collect the fees of admission, assessments, and other dues from members, and pay the same to the Treasurer quarterly, taking his receipt for the amount paid. He shall keep a correct list of the members, and from time to time report to the Government the names of those who are delinquent in paying the dues to the Association. He shall also keep a correct list of all members deceased or discharged during each year, a copy of which he shall furnish to the Committee of Relief. He shall exhibit to the Committee of Finance, annually, a statement of his receipts and payments, with the vouchers, and his accounts shall at all times be open to their inspection; and he shall receive such compensation for his services as the Government may deem proper. The Government may require him to give a bond for the faithful performance of his duty.

ARTICLE VI.

COMMON SEAL.

The Association shall have a common seal, which shall be in the care of the Secretary, and which shall be affixed to all the official documents and certificates which require the signature of the President.

ARTICLE VII.

GOVERNMENT.

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of the Government to superintend the prudential affairs of the Association, and pursue such measures as, in their judgment, will tend to promote its best interests, respectability, and prosperity. They may correspond with other associations of mechanics and manufacturers, on such subjects as are calculated to promote the general objects of this institution, and shall submit such correspondence to the Association, for the information of its members. They shall have power to remit arrearages to unfortunate members, and they shall report to the Association, annually, all remittances made by them during the year. They shall examine and approve the record of their several meetings during each quarter, and this record shall be read at the regular meeting of the Association. They shall, annually, at their first meeting after the election of officers, appoint a Committee of Finance, consisting of the President (who shall be Chairman ex officio), the Vice-President, and three Trustees, the latter to be chosen by written votes.

They shall have power to appoint such ministerial and clerical officers as they may deem expedient necessary, and fix their compensation. See end of section.

SECT. 2. The Government shall make a report in print, to be sent to the members of the Association with the notifications for the annual meeting — the report to comprise an abstract of the Treasurer's report, statement of property, indebtedness, and insurance, an estimate of the probable income for the ensuing year, and the appropriation required for the estimated expenditures of the year based on a stated classification. The appropriation shall be determined and voted by the Association at the annual meeting, and the expenditures shall be limited to the appropriation, or to such additional amounts as the Association may vote at any meeting, notice thereof being given to the members in the notification of the meeting.

SECT. 3. No member of the Government shall be personally interested in any pecuniary transaction to which the Association is a party in interest, unless authorized by a vote of the Association.

ARTICLE VIII.

COMMITTEES.

SECTION 1. the Committee of Relief shall consist of nine members.

SECT. 2. It shall be the duty of the Committee of Relief to seek out and relieve such indigent members of this Association, or their families, as may be proper objects of charity; and to receive and act on all petitions for relief. They shall make a quarterly report of their doings in March, June, September, and December; and an annual report, in detail, in the month of December, for the President to lay before the Government. In their annual report they shall recommend such an appropriation as they may deem necessary to carry out the objects of the committee for the ensuing year. The reports of this committee shall be confined to the Government, and shall not be included in the records of the Association. This committee shall keep a record of its doings, in books prepared and supplied by the Government, which shall be returned to the Government by the committee with their annual report at the close of the year.

SECT. 3. The Committee of Finance shall examine and approve the expenditures of the Association; they shall advise with the Treasurer respecting the investment of funds, and shall have the general oversight of the fiscal concerns of the Association. They shall examine the records and accounts of the Treasurer, Secretary, and Committee of Relief, at the close of the year, and report a statement of the property of the Association previous to the election of officers.

SECT 4. A Committee on Nominations shall be chosen at the quarterly meeting in October, whose duty it shall be to select one or more candidates for each elective office, and the Secretary shall forward a list of such candidates selected to each member of the Association, at least one week anterior to the annual meeting. Said committee shall organize by the election of a chairman and secretary, and each candidate shall be notified of his nomination, and his acceptance be received, before presenting his name to the Association.

shall organize by the election of a chairman and secretary, and each candidate shall be notified of his nomination, and his acceptance be received, before presenting his name to the Association.

ARTICLE IX.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

{ SECTION 1. Beneficence, and the promotion of the industrial arts, are the main objects of this Association; and to effect these, such appropriations shall be made as may be consistent with its funds.

SECT. 2. As it is compatible with the act of incorporation and the good of society, the Association may, from time to time, when the state of its finances will warrant, encourage and promote inventions and improvements in the arts, by periodical exhibitions, and the granting of such premiums, for ingenuity and superior workmanship, as the Government shall deem expedient.

SECT. 3. To reward industry, correct habits, and fidelity, the Association decrees that when an apprentice of a member, on arriving at twenty-one years of age, shall produce a certificate from the person with whom he has served his apprenticeship that he has behaved with fidelity and attention, and has not violated any agreement made by him, it shall be the duty of the Government to direct that he be furnished with a certificate sealed with the seal of the Association, signed by the President and Vice-President, and attested by the Secretary, which certificate shall be in the following terms: —

Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association.

To all who shall see these presents, Greeting: Whereas _____, of _____, hath presented to us the certificate of _____ of _____, setting forth that the said _____ hath duly discharged the duties and fulfilled his engagements as a faithful apprentice, and that he recommends him as worthy the countenance of the Association: Therefore,

We, the President and Vice-President, in behalf of said Association, do grant him this certificate of our approbation; and do recommend him to the notice, encouragement, protection and patronage of all persons in all countries where he may sojourn.

In testimony whereof, we have caused the seal of our Association to be attached to these presents, and signed the same, this _____ day of _____, in the year of our Lord _____, and in _____ year of our institution.

SECT. 4. The Government shall have power at any meeting, by a unanimous vote of the members present, on complaint of any member of the Association, to expel any member who shall be adjudged guilty of ungentlemanlike or dishonorable conduct; but the member so expelled may appeal to the Association at any time within one year from such expulsion.

SECT. 5. It shall be considered dishonorable and ungentlemanly conduct for any member of this Association to employ the apprentice of another person, who shall have left his service without his consent, unless the consent of the Government of the Association that such apprentice may be so employed shall have been obtained. But no such subject shall be brought before the Government until the person aggrieved shall have applied to the offending member, and the latter shall have refused, or for an unreasonable length of time neglected, to give proper satisfaction.

SECT. 6. There shall be an appropriate standard for the Association, to be borne in general processions.

ARTICLE X.

RULES OF ORDER.

SECTION 1. At all the meetings of the Association or Government the members shall be called to order within five minutes after the time named in the notification for the meeting, provided a quorum is present; to form which nine members shall be necessary in the Government, and thirty-five in the Association.

SECT. 2. During the discussion of any question in the Association the person speaking shall stand uncovered and address the presiding officer; he shall not be interrupted while speaking, except to be called to order. These rules shall also be observed in the Government, except that the member may be seated while speaking.

Quorum
and 35

SECT. 3. No member shall speak more than twice to the same question, except for the purpose of explanation, unless he obtains permission from the members present.

SECT. 4. The presiding officer shall have power, and it shall be his duty, to regulate the deliberative proceedings of the Association and Government agreeably to legislative usage.

SECT. 5. No subject foreign to the purposes of the Association shall be introduced at any of its meetings for business. }

ARTICLE XI.

AMENDMENT OR REPEAL OF CONSTITUTION.

SECTION 1. The foregoing ^{By-Laws} Constitution may be amended or repealed whenever three-quarters of the members present at any meeting shall so determine; but no such alteration shall be made unless the subject shall have been proposed at a previous meeting, and in the mean time referred to a committee, and the same specified on the notification for the meeting at which it is to be considered.

SECT. 2. All former rules and regulations of the Association inconsistent with ^{these By-Laws} ~~this Constitution~~ are hereby repealed.

MECHANIC APPRENTICES' LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

THE APPRENTICES' LIBRARY was organized by William Wood, Esq., and committed to the care of the Board of Government of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, February 22, 1820. The present Association of Apprentices was formed June 19, 1828; and the Library committed to their entire control in 1832 by the Charitable Mechanic Association, subject to the following PROVISOS.

- I. That the library shall be solely for the use of Apprentices of members of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, and other Apprentices of mechanics and manufacturers of Boston and vicinity.
- II. That the members of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association shall have the right of visiting the library, examining the books, and taking them for a reasonable period free of expense.
- III. That the Government of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, or a committee from them, shall retain the right of visiting and inquiring into the state of the library from time to time, that they may witness its progress, and report its growth and situation to the parent Association.
- IV. That in case the library shall be enjoyed by any others than the persons mentioned in the first proviso, or that they shall grossly abuse the privileges here granted, the Government of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association shall have the right to resume the management of the library, and all the improvements and additions shall revert to them, to be wholly under their control and disposal as heretofore.
